ROTC Holds Late Registration

by Karen Monroe

Late registration for students interested in either Air Force and Army ROTC units will continue until Oct. 4 in the new Faculty Office Building.

Under the Air Force ROTC program, a student may register for a two-year or four-year program. The first two years of the four-year plan count towards 16 hours of credit each semester, while the last two years of both programs allow for credit per semester.

While enrolled, a student may participate in a flight training program under the Federal Aviation Administration. Under this course the student makes regular trips to Provo airport and eventually earns his private pilot's license.

One Air Force ROTC is completed and the student has received his bachelor's degree, he usually has three alternatives: 1) he may go immediately into active duty and flight training, 2) he may go into active duty, under an armed vocation or, 3) he may elect to further his education at his own expense or with financial aid from the Air Force.

Initiated this semester, the Army ROTC program has already attracted 280 young men at BYU. Available to freshmen, are 300 more openings with various Army ROTC enlistments open to sophomores and upperclassmen.

As many as ten juniors who have four months more of active duty with any of the armed forces or two years of college-level ROTC may combine both their sophomore and junior years.

Sophomores may register for a combined freshman-sophomore two-year program. Similarly, a few juniors who already have one year of college-level ROTC may combine both their sophomore and junior years.

To be added to the Army program soon will be a women's auxiliary called Army Sponsor Corps, similar to the Air Force ROTC's Angel Flight.

In both branches of the ROTC, as many as 20 hours credit may be earned towards graduation, with the last two years' work used towards a minor in Aerospace Studies (Air Force ROTC) or Military Science (Army ROTC).

Additional benefits include greater financial compensation to married officers in all branches of the armed services. Married enlisted men can approximately $2,000 a year during the first year of service, as compared to $6,000 per year for officers.

BYU Receives Iranian Plea

by Charlotte Antrei

Three weeks ago BYU's Iranian students took the case of their country's earthquake victims to the citizens of Provo. Now they are taking that case to BYU.

"It's not because it happened in my country; it's because of the humanity," Akbar Noormaneh, founder of the Nationalist Iranian Students on campus, said Monday.

"If it happens in America, even if it happens in some other country, we try to help."

Noormaneh said that he had the news that 20,000 of his countrymen were killed by the earthquakes, that 10,000 were injured, and that 70,000 were homeless.

"Just imagine that all the people in Provo don't have a home and what's going to happen and what it looks like."

Three weeks ago the Iranians appeared on radio and television and obtained newspaper coverage as they asked Provo for help.

The citizens responded with dollars and other donations as the students canvassed the city. Students may also contribute.

They can write Box 22, BYU, sending their contributions, or make deposits to Savings Account 4343 at the Utah National Bank.

Those who cannot afford to contribute can arrange to help contact others by telephoning 373-6557, 225-5741, 225-5566, or 374-8758.

The Iranians will accept any donations, whether they are food, clothes, or money.

However, Akbar Noormaneh says that there is a problem in shipping donations to Iran because of the time and expense involved.

"The most important thing to help these people is the money so they can buy these things," the NIS founder said.

The group hopes to locate a corporation or organization that is willing to help pay for shipping food and clothes to the earthquake victims.

Our Own Great Debate

The Major candidates may never debate on national television but two aspirants came into our area last week, and a comparison of the two speeches appears on Pg. 2.

Senator Edmund Muskie, the Democratic Vice-presidential choice, and Richard Nixon, the Republican standard-bearer, serve as the combatants.

Bookstore Faces Buying Problem

In an effort to keep up to date, the bookstore has had to order large quantities of required texts.

The requests have caused the bookstore problems and indirectly the bookstore has been created for the students as well.

"We were left with 350 accounting books which we bought back from students last spring, thinking that we could sell them this fall," commented Gene Coats, textbook manager of the BYU Bookstore.

Students often rely on selling their old books to the bookstore to get extra cash, but often they have been disappointed because their books were not bought.

This disappoints the bookstore as well because it often means that there are too many of a particular text in stock. Students are advised that they should continue to check with the bookstore to see what texts are being bought. As books are sold, others are bought to replenish the inventory.

Currently there are several books in demand, one being McCrimmon's English text.

If a student does not wish to wait to sell his book, he can sell almost any book to the bookstore if he is willing to take a lower price.

WORLD-WIDE CAMPUIS

Students from nearly all countries of the world and all of the States in the United States will gather at 10 a.m. today in the annual Welcome Back Assembly. Signs will be posted in the Fieldhouse and students can congregate with other "Home-towners" to support their state (or country) in the inevitable yelling competition.

SPEAKS IN TABERNACLE

... Republican presidential nominee Richard Nixon spoke to 14,000 people crowded into Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City last week. Republican Governor George Romney of Michigan is in background.

Nixon Gains Support In Bid For Whitehouse

By Lynn Packham

In an atmosphere typical of post-convention days, Nixon's visit to Salt Lake City, (Sept. 18), demonstrated GOP solidarity and enthusiasm which his "new feeling" campaign is generating.

Former GOP arch-rival George Romney extended his pre-arranged stop-over in the conservative Rocky Mountain cross-roads city to greet Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nixon. And through Romney's abundant good humor, the previous Nixon-Romney rivalry became the standby for political jokes during the whole day.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 cheered Nixon at the old Salt Lake City airport and the ovations of the 14,000-strong Tabernacle crowd indicated that Utah's electoral votes will probably remain in the GOP camp.

GOP OPTIMISM

The former vice-president started his speech in the Tabernacle by saying he would frankly discuss some of the issues. And first among them was the "new feeling stirring in America." (Even the national press accompanying Nixon noted that gatherings for Nixon have been involving more and more young people and are growing more enthusiastic.)

Nixon said the reason is: "The silent and forgotten America is speaking out."

He elaborated, "These are not the haters, nor the dissenters, but rather those who are angry that during the present Administration the strongest nation in the world has been tied down in Vietnam, and has not been able to govern its own economy, nor control lawlessness."

"This new feeling is that it is time to have new leadership from top to bottom," Nixon reiterated.

FOREIGN POLICY

Urging a new foreign policy, Nixon pledged that he would bring the Vietnam war to an honorable end. But he refused to specify how, repeating his former vow of silence "to not undermine present negotiations."

Throwing barbs in the direction of George Wallace, Nixon said, "As a lawyer who has twice argued cases before the Supreme Court," he could not tolerate those who ridicule America's highest court.

However, moving to gain votes from Wallace, Nixon declared, "Some of the courts have gone too far." With the right kind of legislation we can restore the balance," which he said was lacking from those decisions.

Emphasizing the need to support police forces, Nixon declared that the real respect for laws must be engendered in families, churches and schools.

"You here tonight understand this perhaps better than many people," he said, appealing to the Tabernacle audience. "You show the respect necessary," he said in explaining what the LDS Twelfth Article of Faith's obeying, honoring and sustaining the law means to him.

MACHINERY FOR CHANGE

Epitomizing his stand against the present Administration, Nixon said, "The policy has been: Whenever there is a problem, turn to government... Yet America's history shows greatness comes not from what others do for the people, but what the people do for themselves."

If elected, Nixon promised to enlist private enterprise—"the great American machinery for change"—to efface the improvements he said America needs.

Several times during his address, Nixon complimented the Tabernacle Choir, whose renditions marked the beginning and conclusion of the program, and contributed to the rally's somewhat subdued atmosphere.

The crowd, estimated at 10-14,000, didn't become overly enthusiastic. Perhaps this could be attributed to deference for the Tabernacle, the invocation and benediction offered, and the Choir.

APPEARS AT BYU

... Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine delivered speech to 3,000 students in the Wilkinson Center Ballroom last Thursday night.

Muskie Seeks Unity On Issues

By Charlotte Entré

Senator Edmund Muskie, a successful Democrat from a Republican State, concentrated on the responsibility of the individual when he spoke at BYU Thursday.

The important decision is going to be made by every American within himself," Senator Muskie said as he discussed the issues of the 1968 presidential campaign.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee called for "determination on the part of our society regardless of party."

The senator from Maine listed the main concerns of the campaign as war, social instability, and racial tension, adding that "The problems we're facing today in our society... are problems that no society in the history of man has ever solved."

"We have come closer... than any society," he said.

Muskie described a "clash" between the upper classes "who thought they had gained the fruits of American society but find the strains of that society now rather overwhelming" and "those who feel that they have been shut out and would like to get in."

"The first duty of an organized society is to protect its members," he said, but added that he felt protection should come largely by acting on the causes of social unrest.

In answering a question on the bombing of North Vietnam, the senator said his "own urge in this kind of situation is to take the calculated risk" if there is reasonable reassurance of reciprocity.

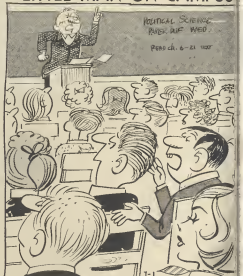

The "bombing card" should not be thrown away at the "wrong time," he cautioned.

When questioned about the effect on the Democratic Party of the 1968 convention, Muskie admitted it "did us no good."

He alluded to television coverage of the convention, saying, "I don't want to run out of live TV time before you have a chance to question on live TV."

Discussing foreign aid, senator said, "I think that we need to move more and more in the direction of multi-national programs" and "away from military assistance."

U.N. Wants Viet Bomb Halt: Thant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. [AP] — Secretary-General U. Thant expressed belief today that a majority of the 124 members of the United Nations would support a unanimous decision for a U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if a measure were put to a test.

He told a news conference he was confident the world was voicing the conscience of the world in continuing to a total bombing halt as an essential first step toward successful Vietnam peace talks. Thant added, however, that he didn't see any light at the end of the tunnel another year or more.

The secretary-general dealt with a wide range of world problems, including the Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia, and Red China and Soviet claims that the U.N. charter renounces Soviet military intervention in Southeast Asia to curb an alleged threat of nuclear resurgence.

Thant declined to challenge the Soviet intervention of the charter, but stated that it was the duty of all U.N. members to seek peaceful settlement of disputes rather than to take unilateral action.

VIETNAM RESOLUTION

On the Vietnam question, the secretary-general suggested the wording of a resolution which might be put before the forthcoming session of the General Assembly to test sentiment on a Vietnam bombing halt. But he said he was not suggesting that any government ask to have the issue knocked on the agenda or that the resolution actually be introduced.

"I am trying to reflect the conscience of humanity," he said. "I was wondering if this wouldn't be one way to find out."

TEXT
The suggested text on Vietnam is as follows:

"The General Assembly
"Deeply concerned at the war in Vietnam,

"Convinced that the essential first step should be taken to move the conflict from the battlefield to the conference table so as to lead to negotiations and positive steps toward a peaceful solution of the problem.

"Requests that the bombing of North Vietnam—that is, the Democratic Republic of Vietnam—should cease."

CZECH COMMENT

That once more deplored the Soviet actions against Czechoslovakia and declared they would renounce the cold war and adversely affect the work of the General Assembly opening Tuesday for its 20th session.

He declared, however, to equate the Czechoslovak situation with the Vietnam war. Asked whether he would suggest a resolution on Czechoslovakia similar to the one he proposed on Vietnam, he said the two problems were not the same.

"If the Russians were bombing and napalming the villages of Czechoslovakia," he said, "you want and see what I would have to say."

WEST GERMAN QUESTION

Thant was pressed to interpret provisions of the U.N. charter which the Resumes claim give them authority to send military forces against West Germany to halt a resurgence of Nazism. He said he would give his interpretation only if asked by a member government or by A.S.N. organ.

He added, however, that he believed the Bonn government was dealing with the problem and "no unilateral action should find a place in such an eventuality."

Czech Hopes Are High For Early Withdrawal

PRAGUE [AP] — Hopes for early withdrawal of most of the Soviet Bloc troops who occupied Czechoslovakia last month were strengthened today by a report in the newspapers of the ruling Communist Party, Rude Pravo.

"NEXT FEW DAYS"
The paper, silent Sunday on the subject, told its readers today that Premier Oldrich Benik announced in Ostrava on Saturday, that "the withdrawal of troops will begin in the next few days. The majority of them will withdraw and it will not take a long time. But certain troops will remain. How many and for how long we will tell our public in due time."

So far, however, there were no definite signs of the partial troop withdrawal.

Graduate Study Grant Deadlines Upcoming

Competition for grants for graduate study abroad is nearing its close. Interested students should contact Graduate Education, campus extension 2215.

The grants, awarded by the U.S. Government, are for graduate study or research, or for study and professional training in creative and performing arts in the years 1969-1970.

The awards are available as part of the educational and cultural exchange program of the U.S. Department of State. The general purpose of the program, administered by the Institute of International Education, is to increase mutual understanding between the United States and other countries.

Students who already hold the doctoral degree are not eligible to apply. Preference will be given to candidates who have had no previous extended study or residence abroad, and who are under 35 years of age.

Selections will be made on the basis of academic and/or professional record, the feasibility of the applicant's proposed study plan, his personal qualifications and evidence that his selection for a grant would help to advance the aims of the program.

Creative and performing artists who wish to study abroad are not required to have a bachelor's degree but they must have four years of professional study or equivalent experience.

Applicants in social work must have at least two years of professional experience after the Master of Social Work degree. Applicants in the field of medicine must have an M.D. at the time of application.

V.B.

These students each read a stack of book during one semester. You can read fast, too—and with better comprehension.

COME TO A READING DYNAMICS FREE DEMONSTRATION AND FIND OUT HOW.

SEE FREE DEMONSTRATION

TODAY THROUGH THURSDAY

September 24 through 26

5 and 8 p.m.

290 N. University, Provo

- One person at end of this series of demonstrations will win a fully paid scholarship to Reading Dynamics.
- You will see a Reading Dynamics graduate read at amazing speeds from a book he has never seen before and then tell in detail what he has read.
- You will see a documented film that includes actual interviews with Washington Senators who have taken the course.
- You will learn how we can help you to faster reading, with improved comprehension and greater recall.

Each demonstration lasts 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Money Back Guarantee

We guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student AT LEAST 3 times. We will refund the entire tuition to any student who, after completing minimum class and study requirement, does not at least triple his reading efficiency as measured by our beginning and ending tests. Reading efficiency combines rates AND comprehension, not speed alone.

Here are some comments from typical students:

Robert Driscoll, Student

This course has given me time to enjoy all of books I have wanted to read for so long.

Ray C. Jolly, Professor

Reading Dynamically has already proved a substantial help in covering material that I need use in teaching. It has also made it possible for me to do some reading outside of my professional field—something I have not done in years because of lack of time.

William Moore, Executive

This course has added new dimensions of enjoyment and information to a busy schedule. I would recommend it particularly for the High School, College student. It teaches planned study, comprehension. It is valuable for anyone determined to put forth the effort.

Scott Moesinger, Student

I'm thoroughly pleased with the course. Last winter I read six books on chemistry with better understanding than I've ever had in previous years study.

Now registering for fall classes!
